Common Law Admission Test 2016 was conducted by Rajiv Gandhi National University of Law for seventeen universities across the country. CLAT-2016 received 45,075 forms and students appeared for the test in 60 cities at 158 centres. This year CLAT entered into MoUs with 25 academic institutions; that would be using CLAT score for admission purposes. Furthermore, four PSUs: IOCL, NTPC ONGC and Power Grid Corporation of India will be using PG CLAT Scores for recruiting legal officers.

CLAT-2016 has been appreciated for complete transparency and prompt grievance redressal of the Candidates. RGNUL stands tall and satisfied after successful conduct of CLAT-2016.

One Day Training Program on Rights of Child in collaboration with National Human Rights Commission, New Delhi (October)

Professor (Dr.) Nishtha Jaswal, Member, Chandigarh Commission for Protection of Child Rights, delivering Key Note Address on Rights of Child.

Rajiv Gandhi National University of Law, in proud collaboration with National Human Rights Commission, has organized One Day Training Programme on Rights of Child on 17 October 2015. Over 100 delegates registered and participated in this One day Training Programme

The eminent speakers were Prof. (Dr.) Veer Singh, Prof. (Dr.) Nishtha Jaswal, Prof. (Dr.) Gurpal Singh and Prof. (Dr.) Anirudh Prasad.

The Workshop was conducted with the objective that children are the future of every country, the best possible development of children is to ensure that they grow up in an environment conducive to their bright future. While India has, over the last few decades, made considerable progress in ensuring child survival and basic education, much remains to be done and deliberated upon with respect and promotion of child rights. The Indian Constitution has a framework within which ample provisions exists for the protection, development and welfare for children. There are a wide range of laws that guarantee children their rights and entitlement as provided in the Constitution and in the UN Convention of the Rights of the Child. The Training Programme provided a useful platform for the students, research scholars, academicians, advocates, and officials from various departments, NGOs, policy makers, child rights activists, and others to understand the challenges in protecting the rights of the children.

this One Day National Seminar cum Workshop which culminated into a unification of academicians, lawyers and students from across the country.

The Chief Guest was Shri. S. Swaran Singh Channy (IAS Retd.), Chief Information Commissioner, State Information Commission, Punjab and our worthy Registrar Professor (Dr.) G.I.S. Sandhu.

The Seminar cum Workshop focused on objectives and working of the Right to Information Act, 2005 for strengthening the theory and practice of right to information laws across the country.

There is a need to create awareness among citizens about their right to public information. Such awareness will ensure accountability and encourage public participation confirming good governance. Thus, the Seminar and Workshop topics pose a lot of challenging areas to be covered during technical sessions under different themes.

The presenters presented valuable insights into the following nine sub-themes of the seminar:

Right to Information and Protection of Human Rights, RTI and Good Governance, Social Science Perspective of RTI, Use and Misuse of RTI, RTI Regulatory Mechanism, Transparency and Accountability in the Implementation of RTI, Right to Information and Media Law, Right to Information Advocacy, Constitution and Right to Know.

The Seminar began with a lecture by the Chief Information Commissioner, Punjab in the morning. Thereafter, the Seminar proceeded in eight sessions pre and post-lunch, comprising around 80 presenters, chaired by each of our esteemed panelists. Parallel to these sessions, we also conducted around twenty web conferencing sessions for selected presenters who were unable to make it to the seminar here.

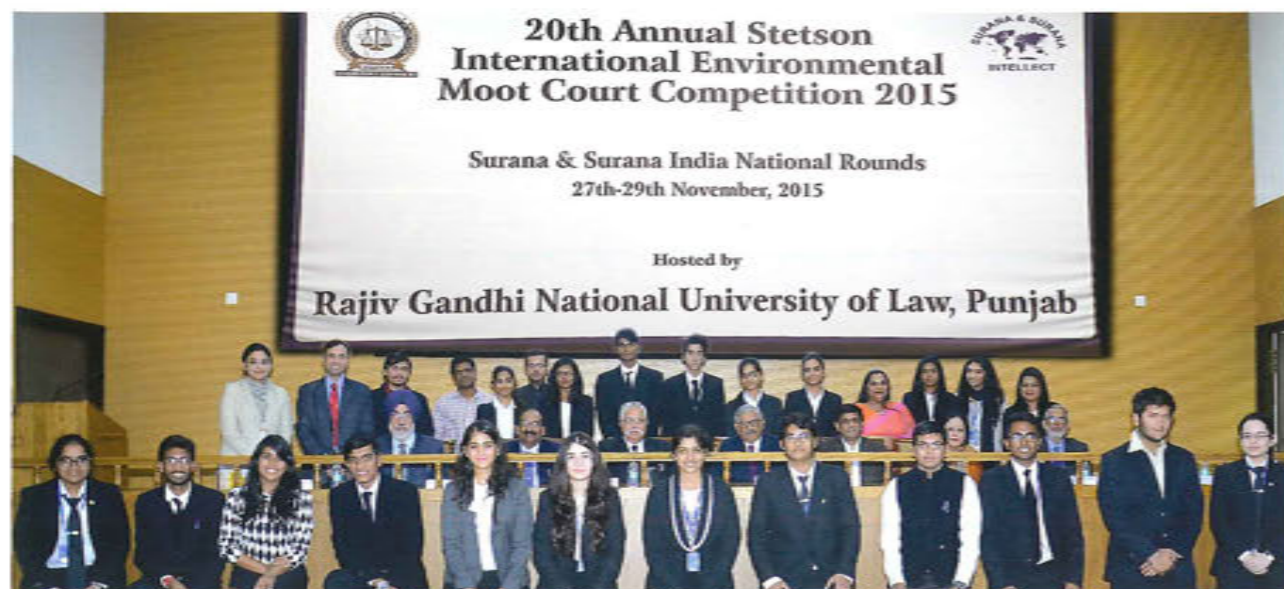

The Souvenir comprising selected abstracts has been published along with the study material on Right to Information and Good Governance. Later, the seminar proceedings got published in the form of a book consisting of selected research papers of quality which were given to the presenters complementarity.

Marking the importance of the day, even prior to the convocation ceremony, the university observed two Minutes Silence as a tribute to the Father of the Nation. These two minutes depicted the nationality of the institution for the national leaders and also inspired the students to cherish national moral values.

Professor (Dr.) Paramjit S. Jaswal, the Vice Chancellor of RGNUL, Punjab expressing his happiness on the success of the students of the institution said that "being perfect" is most important virtue of life. For him, lawyers, academicians, corporate executive and judges always work towards perfectionism. "The wealth of knowledge must be utilized for good of the people, community and one's nation", advised the Vice Chancellor and quoting Dr. Kalam he said, 'to shine one has to burn himself'.

Establishing with grace that the Judiciary deeply respects the importance of academics, Hon'ble Mr. Justice Shiavax Jal Vazifdar, addressed the students and said, "Your success is our accomplishment", which was an encouragement for the students. He suggested that to lead a good and successful life they must avoid short cuts; must learn from their seniors in the field; and uphold 'integrity' as integrity is not just a fancy term rather it should be adopted as a way of life. In his words teachers are the persons who guide us to run the race of life hence their importance in life should never be undermined.

'Self Respect' should not be compromised at any point of life, said the Chief Guest, Hon'ble Mr. Justice T.S. Thakur, Chief Justice of India. He said that it gives satisfaction if the lawyers understand that they are very important characters in the drama called life, for which they need to uphold 'ethics' to perform their job in a desirable manner. The law students having no background from legal field can still touch skies of success if they adopt the 'principle of perfection' which Judiciary and Judges duly respect. The most touching moment of the event was when the gathering witnessed eyes of Hon'ble Mr. Justice T.S. Thakur, Chief Justice of India delivering Convocation Address.

Justice Thakur filled with tears of love and respect for his teachers who had taught him while he was pursuing his law degree. Those few seconds of silence threw a big responsibility on the shoulders of the teachers of the institution to touch such milestones which their older generations had created. He said that the present Chief Justice of India is a product of that time when there were no such world class campuses and infrastructures; hence his expectations from students of RGNUL and other such institutions are very high.

High Court Judges, Judges from District Courts, Vice Chancellors from other universities of India, Administrators from Centre as well as State offices, renowned lawyers and other dignitaries graced the occasion with their presence.

National Conference on Environmental Sustainability and Social Dynamics (March)

RGNUL organized National Conference on Environmental Sustainability and Social Dynamics in Collaboration with Punjab Pollution Control Board, Patiala.

Professor Ranjit Singh Kang in his Key Note Address highlighted various aspects of the environment degradation and its impact. The studies shows that in next three decades, if we fails to take corrective measures, climate change will lead Climate Poverty and ultimately led to maximum migration in world over, adding that developed and most populated countries are facing the threat from climate change as it would adversely affect agricultural production which will have cascading effect on economics, food security, Health, social and other political powers. He urged the public to create awareness about environment as it is set to affect everyone.

In his address, University Grants Commission Secretary Dr. Jaspal S Sandhu urged the participants to switch to the greener and renewable energy. He expressed that the people themselves have ruined the natural environment around in race of development and act very irresponsibly when it comes to the nature and its components. "We are duty bound to leave this earth planet greener and safe for humankind for our younger generations. So everyone should put all needed efforts to work in cutting greenhouse gases emission". He said that UGC has made it mandatory to teach environment topics in all under
