EDITORIAL

RGNUL Law Review has always received overwhelming response from students but because of the constraint of rules those could not be published. Looking at the quality and merit of the research contributions, RLR is now inviting scholarly papers on topical issues, from students for a special edition on Students' Research titled, "Contemporary Issues in Law: Student Perspective". All contributions will be peer-reviewed. The last date to receive papers is 28 February 2014. The contributions must follow RLR style and Scheme, available on RGNUL Website.
