The last academic session has seen hectic activity throughout the year aimed at holistic development of the students and faculty. The RGNUL organized GIAN Special Course on Global Constitutionalism: Emerging Trends and invited Hon'ble Justice Mohan Pieris, Ex-Chief Justice, Sri Lanka. Gian is a great initiative by Govt. of India for Institutes of Higher education, to bring to their door step the talent pool of academicians and entrepreneurs to interact with Indian Students and faculty, leading to comprehensive development. RGNUL student Competitions, Moot and Debate have entered their seventh year respectively and are going strong. The zeal with which students from all over the country participate is heartening to witness and is a pleasure to host. We have added Ted Talk to on litany of events organized to inspire and motivate our students by looking at varying facets of achievements. The year also saw new research publications of the university, RGNUL Journal of Social Sciences, CASIHR Journal on Human Rights Practice. Research is an essential component of academics, and the RGNUL has been making steady but sure endeavor in this direction. RGNUL Law Review, Peer Reviewed Bi-annual search Journal already figures on the UGC approved lists of Journals. The University in the last academic session also undertook the extensive exercise of revamping its entire scheme of study to incorporate the credit based choice system. At present RGNUL scheme of study covers all major dimension of law and allows the student to make further choices of papers that they would like to study. Looking forward to another active and productive academic session.
