The subject of law fascinates me extensively. I am intrigued by development in the law and the way that it adapts to an ever changing society. I feel I would be suited to a law degree as I am at my best when challenged, relish the opportunity of lateral thinking and enjoy evaluating the microcosm of human relations. My desire to study law developed initially from my genuine interest in the justice system. In recent years, I have taken an interest in various cases of miscarriage of justice and human rights and have followed these cases right through to their judgements, trying to draw my own conclusion, and in my opinion Law as a profession would give me the best platform to understand the growing complexities in our socio-economic society.
